

₿-only format

A simple new convention:

- 1 Express bitcoin quantities as integers
- 2 Label all quantities with ₿

Like this:

₿ 435,200

In short: ₿ becomes the “sats symbol”

People can call these whatever they want: bitcoin, sats, bits, etc

Keep BTC as the major unit
i.e. 1BTC = ₿100,000,000

The price of bitcoin continues to be quoted in BTC terms, as today

Why?

It's cleaner.

Gets rid of inscrutable decimals and inconsistency in formats.

It's easier.

New users no longer need to learn or be confused by “sats”.

It preserves the brand.

In a future payments world, the bitcoin brand remains central.

It's grassroots.

Support has come from many corners over many months, momentum is growing.
